

Idex-Saclay : recommandations du jury

Recommendations to the project bearers

Better define and accelerate the implementation of the unique School of Engineering which is not simply a consortium associating existing independent schools. The essential requisites to establish the School should be reached no later than 2013.

Specify the vision of the integrated Paris Saclay University further, with legally binding commitments of all partners and clear milestones for implementation.

Recommendations to the government

Monitor the progress achieved towards a new governance model, including meeting the roadmap milestones, through a mid-term review. The NROs should formalize their commitment to prioritizing future hiring within IDEX perimeters.

The French administrative system appears to hamper the creation of a unique contract with the IdeX.
